

Praxis Looks For Justice

Key Word: Justice

Key Verse: And will not God grant justice to his chosen ones who cry to him day and night? Will he delay long in helping them? Luke 18:7

Praxis' skin changed color according to his moods, so everybody always knew exactly what he was thinking and feeling. He'd been brown for a number of days, because he'd been deep in thought. There was lots of entertainment for the adult pixies, but nothing for the pixie children. It wasn't fair. Praxis wanted a pixie picnic.

Then Praxis had a brainstorm. He'd find the smallest, youngest, cutest pixies and send them to the King Pixie. Surely the King wouldn't refuse then?

Praxis made the little pixies practice until each of them knew exactly what to say. Then he sent them on their way.

The first pixie rapped on the toadstool door, and said, "Pixie King, you are the wisest and noblest pixie in the whole wood. Please give us little pixies a picnic, a wonderful gift for us."

The Pixie King looked astonished and promised to think about it. Then he closed the door. A moment later, the second pixie rapped on the door and delivered the same message. Again the Pixie King promised to think about it.

By the time he saw the twelfth and last pixie, his frown was very black indeed, but he couldn't be cross with the tiniest pixie.

So he stood outside his door and roared, "Praxis!" in a voice that sounded so much like thunder that all the little pixies shivered. Praxis shuffled forwards.

The Pixie King roared, "What's the meaning of this, Praxis?"

"I only wanted a picnic," stuttered Praxis, "for the pixie children."

"Praxis," began the King, "you can have your picnic. But you only had to ask. Because you made all these other pixies do your work for you, you're going to have to do something for me."

Praxis sighed, and his skin turned a sad blue.

"I want you to organize all the games for the picnic," said the Pixie King, "while I organize the food. Will you do it?"

Praxis' eyes suddenly shone. He nodded his head as fast as he could, and he was so happy that his skin turned bright, shocking pink for three whole days.

Anti-Maze

In today's Gospel story Jesus told his disciples a parable to teach them that they should always pray and never become discouraged. A widow kept coming to the judge pleading for her rights. The judge finally agreed to see that the widow would get her rights.

Will God not judge in favor of his own people who cry to him day and night for help? Yes! He will judge in their favor and do it quickly. Help the disciples spread the word to all people. Remember, to solve the puzzle you must travel dot to dot through walls, and do not move in a diagonal direction. We have started the path for you.
